Introduction

Pokémon Organized Play protocols and procedures are intended to foster a spirit of friendly competition at all Play! Pokémon events. However, there occasionally arise situations, whether intentionally or unintentionally, in which players and spectators do not abide by the Play! Pokémon rules or the Spirit of the Game. In these cases, Tournament Organizers and judges need to issue penalties to the players. These range from Cautions and Warnings that do not represent substantial corrective action to more lasting forms of penalties, including disqualification from an event.

This document is intended to provide Tournament Organizers and judges with guidelines by which they can assign and report penalties in a fair, even, and logical way.

1. Assigning Penalties

Play! Pokémon Tournament Organizers seek to create fun, safe, and non-stressful play experiences for our players. For this reason, the application of penalties should be handled in the most polite and discreet manner possible.

Every time a penalty is assigned, it should be accompanied by an explanation of specifically how the player's actions are disallowed by the Play! Pokémon Tournament Rules and by a clear description of what penalty will result from a repeated infraction.

Pokémon Organized Play believes that standard-level events are a learning environment for new players, as well as players practicing for more competitive-level events. Therefore, the application of penalties should be handled in a way that is positive and that moves the player toward a better overall understanding of the rules. In order to avoid singling players out or making a spectacle of an incident, Tournament Organizers and judges may want to assign penalties in private. Issues regarding attire, personal hygiene and other potentially embarrassing topics should also be handled away from the table.

In some cases a player may choose to drop from the event in an attempt to avoid receiving a serious penalty. This tactic is unacceptable. The Head Judge should notify the player that the penalty will still be assessed and reported to POP accordingly.

With the exception of the Unsporting Conduct penalties, the penalties outlined in this document assume that all rules violations are unintentional. If a judge deems that a rules violation has been made intentionally, the Unsporting Conduct: Cheating penalty should be applied. POP feels that cheating is among the worst offenses that a player can commit at an event and should be dealt with swiftly.

1.1. Deviating from Recommended Penalties

The penalties for infractions are simply recommendations and may be increased or decreased in severity based on circumstances. As a general rule, judges should take an especially easy approach with the Junior age division. Younger players are often prone to mistakes due to lack of experience or the intimidation of playing in a competitive environment. POP recommends starting with a Caution for most penalties applied to players in the Junior age division. Younger or less-experienced players should always be given the benefit of the doubt, as they are often learning the game and most of the mistakes they make are accidental. These players may be given additional Caution penalties before a Warning is issued.

The final word on what penalties should be applied to which players and at what time is up to the Head Judge of the event. The Tournament Organizer and other judges may assign penalties, but they should always check with the Head Judge before assigning a penalty more severe than a Warning. All Cautions and Warnings assigned by any judge or Tournament Organizer should be reported to the Head Judge of the event. The Head Judge is required to report any penalty above a Caution to Pokémon Organized Play.

2. Repeated Infractions

In the case where a player repeats an infraction or fails to correct his or her behavior after receiving a penalty, the judge or Tournament Organizer should escalate the level of penalty for each subsequent infraction to further reinforce the need for the erring player to play within the rules. This will result in a higher-than-usual penalty being issued for a particular offense.

Generally speaking, escalating the penalty by one step per repetition of an infraction is satisfactory. This means that for the fourth penalty, an error that was originally penalized with a Caution will often receive a Game Loss. In some cases, increasing the penalty by more than one step may be appropriate. In the case of Slow Play penalties, it may also be appropriate to escalate the penalty earlier than with other issues.

Judges and Tournament Organizers should understand that a tournament is not an isolated incident. If a player has a history of excessively committing the same infractions at your events, starting with a penalty higher than the one recommended in this document is appropriate. For example, a player who has a history of Unsporting Conduct: Minor at past events could be issued a Warning or Prize Card penalty, instead of a Caution for the first instance of the penalty at an event.

3. Multiple Infractions

Players who commit more than one type of infraction during the course of an event are often genuinely uninformed: competitive tournaments can be daunting, and there is much to learn about procedure, etiquette, and fair play. It can also be nerve-wracking to compete for prizes at the age of many of our players, and they should be given every chance to learn about the game and the Play! Pokémon system.

That being said, it is also important to recognize that some players attempt to gain extra leverage at an event by committing several different errors “accidentally,” and these players should be encouraged to discontinue this type of behavior.

Simply put, the decision as to whether to increase the penalty assigned to a player who has previously committed a different infraction is left to the assigning judge or Tournament Organizer. Younger and less-experienced players deserve a little extra consideration, and, unless recommended in this document, Game Loss penalties should rarely be assigned to first offenses, even if the player has made other mistakes during the same event.

4. Unreported Infractions

It is each player’s responsibility to ensure that he or she and his or her opponent are playing by both the game and tournament rules. If a player makes a game play, procedural, or other error, and both that player and his or her opponent miss the error, the judge and Tournament Organizer cannot be expected to rewind the game-play decisions made after the error or adjust the outcome of a resolved game.

5. Reporting Penalties to POP

Simple Cautions do not need to be reported to POP; however, penalties at the Warning level and above must be reported. POP tracks each player's penalty history to differentiate intentional repetition of infractions from unintentional occurrences, and to determine if long-term action is necessary.

Penalties that require reporting must be submitted to playercoordinator@pokemon.com within 7 days of the event date. A penalty reporting form can be found on the Tournament Rules and Resources page for your convenience.

If you cannot access the penalty reporting form, please email the information to playercoordinator@pokemon.com:

- Tournament sanctioning number
- Player IDs and names of the relevant players
- Player ID and name of the judge issuing the penalty
- A detailed account of the relevant proceedings of the event, up to and including the infraction, the response from the judges and Tournament Organizer, and the reaction, if any, of the involved players

6. Types of Penalties

The following list details the various levels of penalty in order of severity. Only Pokémon Organized Play is authorized to add to or alter any of the penalties below.

It is important to note that actions taken by a judge in an attempt to correct the Game State are separate and distinct from any penalties earned.

Tournament Organizers and judges may not issue any penalty other than those listed below.

6.1. Caution

A Caution is the most basic of assigned penalties. In essence, the judge or TO assigning the Caution is merely notifying the player that he or she did something wrong. The Caution should be followed with an explanation to the player about the correct procedure as well as notification to the player that a repeated offense may result in a higher penalty.

6.2. Warning

A Warning is similar to a Caution in that both are minor penalties. They differ in that Warnings must be reported to POP by the Head Judge or Tournament Organizer of the event in which they occur. If younger or less-experienced players commit a second offense that was penalized the first time with a Caution, a second Caution is a suitable second penalty, but a Warning may need to be issued on a third offense. Judges should always use discretion when escalating a penalty in the Junior age division, as this group is often still learning the game.

After a Warning has been issued, the issuing TO or judge should confirm that the erring player is aware of the proper rules and procedures as set forth in the Play! Pokémon Tournament Rules. The player should be informed that a repeat offense may result in an escalated penalty, such as a Prize Card penalty or a Game Loss.

6.3. Prize Card

The Prize Card penalty is used when a mistake has been made that significantly affects the game state and there is no clear way to resolve the issue, or when a Warning has been given and a Multi-Prize Card penalty would be too harsh. When issuing a Prize Card penalty, a judge gives the player who did not commit the penalty the option to take one of his or her Prize cards into his or her hand. The penalty is still recorded even if the player chooses not to take the Prize card. If this Prize card happens to be the last Prize card, the game is over, and the player who took his or her last Prize card is given the game win.

6.4. Multi-Prize Card

The Multi-Prize Card penalty is used when a mistake has been made that has a severe impact on the game state and there is no clear way to resolve the issue, but a Game Loss is too harsh of a penalty. When issuing a Multi-Prize Card penalty, a judge gives the player who did not commit the penalty the option to take up to three of his or her Prize cards into his or her hand. The player may choose to take fewer than three Prize cards if he or she wishes, and must announce how many he or she will be taking in advance of taking these Prize cards. The penalty is still recorded, even if the player chooses not to take any Prize cards.

6.5. Game Loss

The Game Loss penalty is generally used when a mistake has been made that has a severe impact on the game state, to the point where the game is irreparably broken and unable to continue. This penalty is also used for other major procedural errors or problems.

When issuing a Game Loss penalty during an active game, the game is recorded as a loss for the player receiving the penalty. In extreme cases where significant errors have been made by both players in a single game, a Game Loss penalty may be issued to both players simultaneously. A game terminated in this manner is not a tie; it is recorded as having no winner.

If this penalty is issued between rounds, the penalty is applied to the player's next game.

6.6. Disqualification

Disqualification is the most serious penalty that can be issued at a tournament. Its use should be strictly reserved for the most extreme cases, where a player's actions (whether intentional or unintentional) have significantly and negatively impacted the integrity or operation of the entire event. Players who receive this penalty are removed from the tournament and become ineligible to receive any prizes. It is important that the removal be enacted in such a way so as not to inflame, extend, or call any more attention to the situation than is absolutely necessary.

The timing of a player's disqualification has an impact on the remainder of the tournament.

- If disqualified after pairings are posted or during an active match, the player is given a loss for that round, and then dropped from the event.
- If disqualified after his or her match is completed but before pairings for the next round are posted, the player is simply dropped from the event.

- If disqualified at any point during a Single Elimination cut, the player is dropped from the event, and his or her opponent receives a win for that round.

If the player's actions warrant it, asking the player to leave the tournament site may be necessary. The player receiving the penalty should be given time to collect his or her belongings and to make arrangements with any other players he or she may have traveled with.

7. Types of Infractions

There are several categories of infraction, and each should be treated slightly differently based on the age and experience level of the involved players.

Each infraction lists two penalties. The Tier 1 Penalty is the first penalty that should be assigned to a player committing this type of infraction at an event such as a store level tournament, League Challenge, or City Championships event. The Tier 2 Penalty should be assigned at events such as State Championships, Regional Championships, National Championships, or World Championships events, as players at these events are held to a higher standard of game play.

7.1. Game-Play Error

This infraction covers general mistakes made during the course of a game. These mistakes can have very little impact on a game, or they can bring a game to an abrupt halt. This category defines the three levels of errors and outlines the appropriate penalties for each.

7.1.1. Minor

These errors have very little effect on game-play and can usually be fixed with little effort. In many cases, players should be given multiple starting penalties before escalating the penalty, and the maximum penalty given should be a Prize Card penalty.

Examples of Game-Play Error: Minor include:

- Drawing a card to your hand without showing it to your opponent when the card tells you to do so.
- Declaring an attack without having the proper Energy attached.
- Failing to place Prize cards at the beginning of the game. Discovered after play starts but before any searches of the deck.
- Forgetting to discard a Supporter card after it has been played.
- Drawing an extra card.
- Forgetting to flip a coin for a Burned or Poisoned Pokémon between turns.
- Inadvertently revealing the top card of your deck, or one of your Prize cards.

Recommended Starting Penalty:

Tier 1: Caution

Tier 2: Warning

7.1.2. Major

When game state has become irreversibly confused due to game-play errors, it is appropriate for the judge to issue a higher-level penalty. Major game-play error penalties are also appropriate for minor game-play errors that have left the game too confused to reset.

In addition to the assigned penalty to the offending player, a Caution should be issued to the player's opponent for not properly keeping track of game state and rules.

Examples of Game-Play Error: Major include:

- Playing more than one Energy card in a single turn without the use of an effect that allows you to.
- Shuffling your deck mid-game without the use of a card effect.
- Insufficiently randomizing your deck.
- Failing to place Prize cards at the beginning of the game. Discovered after a search of the deck.*
Taking a Prize card without Knocking Out a Pokémon.
- Taking too many Prize cards after Knocking Out a Pokémon.
- Forgetting to place damage counters on a Pokémon from a mandatory effect, such as Poisoned.
- Using an Ability when a card prevents its use.

Recommended Starting Penalty:

Tier 1: Warning

Tier 2: Prize Card

If two searches have been made, the starting penalty can be escalated one step. If three or more searches have been made, escalating to the next penalty tier is appropriate.*

7.1.3. Severe

In some cases, a game-play error occurs which irreparably breaks the game state. In these cases, there is no way that either player or a judge can reset the game to the point where it can be continued.

In addition to the assigned penalty to the offending player, a Warning should be issued to the player's opponent for not properly keeping track of game state and rules.

Examples of Game-Play Error: Severe include:

- Failing to place Prize cards at the beginning of the game. Discovered after three or more searches of the deck.
- Shuffling your hand into your deck without the use of a card effect.
- Shuffling your Prize cards into your deck without the use of a card effect.
- Shuffling your discard pile into your deck without the use of a card effect.
- Picking up your cards before both players agree on the game winner.

Recommended Starting Penalty:

Tier 1: Game Loss

Tier 2: Game Loss

7.2. Marked Cards

Cards in a player's deck that are clearly distinguishable from other cards in the deck during play are referred to as 'marked'. A variety of conditions can cause the cards in a player's deck to become marked.

Because marked cards can give a player foresight into the next card that he or she will draw, the contents of his or her deck, or the location of a specific card in the player's deck, marked cards cannot be allowed in any player's deck at a sanctioned Pokémon TCG event. If the problem is caught during deck checks prior to the start of the event, these errors can be corrected without issuing a penalty.

While considering the severity of penalty to be assessed based on advantage, the tournament staff should take into account both the markings on the cards or sleeves, and the variety of cards that have these markings. For example, if five different cards in a player's deck are marked due to sleeve length, it is reasonable to assume that little advantage was gained, as knowledge of which cards are in those sleeves provides very little advantage. However, in the same example, if the cards all have a similar mechanic, such as allowing the player to search the deck for a Pokémon, significant advantage could have been gained, so a stronger penalty should be applied.

If a player is required to re-sleeve a deck due to deck problems, the player should be strongly encouraged to randomize the deck prior to re-sleeving. In the event that there is a flaw in the new sleeves that goes undetected initially, randomizing the deck will reduce the likelihood of a pattern occurring. Players are always responsible for the condition of their cards and card sleeves, even if any problems were missed by the event staff during a previous deck check.

7.2.1. Minor

This penalty should be used when marked cards exist but there is no discernable pattern to which cards are marked. If there appears to be some pattern to which cards are marked, escalating to the next penalty tier is appropriate.

Placing the deck in card sleeves (if unsleeved) or replacing the damaged sleeves (if sleeved) usually solves the problem. Marked cards or sleeves should be replaced as soon as possible, without disrupting game play.

Examples of Marked Cards: Minor include:

- Two basic Energy, a Pikachu, a Fighting Stadium, and a Potion have a thumbnail mark along the lower edge of the sleeve. The combination of cards does not create a pattern that would provide the player with significant advantage.
- The player's sleeves have standard wear and tear in different areas of the sleeves, which could allow the player to determine which cards are which at a cursory glance.
- Several of the player's cards are parallel holo versions of the card, causing a slight bend down the center of the card. However, while the cards are identifiable as parallel holo cards, there is enough variety in which cards bend that no pattern can be determined.

Recommended Starting Penalty:

Tier 1: Caution

Tier 2: Warning

7.2.2. Major

This penalty applies to a player who has marked cards or sleeves where there is a discernable pattern to which cards are marked. Because the possibility for a player to gain an advantage is high, the penalties associated with this category are more severe. Further investigation may be required to determine if the markings are intentional, or if the player is using accidental markings to intentionally gain advantage. If either of these proves to be the case, the penalty should be escalated to Unsporting Conduct: Cheating, and the appropriate action should be taken.

Placing the deck in card sleeves (if unsleeved) or replacing the damaged sleeves (if sleeved) usually solves the problem. Marked cards or sleeves should be replaced as soon as possible, without disrupting game play.

Examples of Marked Cards: Major include:

- All of the Basic Pokémon in a player's deck are parallel holo, causing a slight bend down the center of the card. This creates a pattern which allows the player to identify Basic Pokémon when the cards are face-down, at rest.
- A card in the player's deck was damaged, and has created a visible wear mark on the back of the sleeve along the damaged area, allowing the card to easily be identified while face-down.
- The sleeves on all of the Special Energy cards in a player's deck are slightly longer than the rest of the sleeves.

Recommended Starting Penalty:

Tier 1: Multi-Prize Card

Tier 2: Game Loss

7.3. Deck Problems

This section serves as a catchall for problems involving illegal decks and decklists, discovered during an event. A player's decklist is the roadmap to his or her deck. It is important that each player's deck matches his or her decklist at all times over the course of the tournament. There are three general categories for deck problems, which are outlined below.

The timing of when a decklist or deck problem is discovered dictates what penalty should be assigned. If decklist or deck problems are caught during deck checks prior to the start of the event, these errors can be corrected without issuing a penalty. As the deck has not been officially registered at this time, the player may make any changes to the decklist or deck to make it legal.

- If decklist or deck problems are caught after game play has begun a Game Loss should be issued. The player is restricted as to what changes can be made, as outlined below.
- If a decklist does not clearly communicate the cards in the deck (using an unclear abbreviation with no collection number, for example) then the appropriate penalty below will be chosen once the judges are able to determine which cards should have been listed. If this is caught during a match, the rules regarding timing listed above will apply.

In all cases, it is important that the illegal deck or decklist be corrected as soon as possible. The player should be reminded why his or her deck or decklist was illegal, and that player should be the individual who actually changes the cards in his or her deck. These changes must be verified by the Head Judge or Tournament Organizer of the event.

Players are always responsible for ensuring that the contents of their deck and decklist are legal for the event, even if any deck problems were missed by the event staff during a previous deck check.

Sections 7.3.1 through 7.3.4 assume that the deck problems are caught after the event has begun.

7.3.1. Illegal Decklist, Legal Deck

If a player's deck meets the format restrictions and deck construction rules but the decklist does not, the decklist should be made legal by replacing the illegal cards with basic Energy cards of the player's choosing, if necessary. The deck should then be modified to reflect the changes.

Examples of Deck Problems: Illegal Decklist, Legal Deck include:

- The decklist contains five copies of Plasma Energy, but the deck contains four copies of Plasma Energy. The 5th copy of Plasma Energy would be removed from the decklist.
- The decklist contains more or less than sixty cards, but the deck contains exactly sixty cards. In this case, any cards not listed on the decklist must be removed from the deck.
- Insert additional example

Recommended Starting Penalty:

Tier 1: Game Loss

Tier 2: Game Loss

7.3.2. Legal Decklist, Illegal Deck

If a player's decklist meets the format restrictions and deck construction rules but the deck does not, the illegal cards must be removed from the deck, and the deck must be modified to match the decklist. The Head Judge should carefully consider what advantage, if any, was gained by the illegal deck. If the Head Judge feels that there was a significant advantage, escalating the penalty may be necessary.

The exception to this is if cards are simply missing from the deck. This usually happens if the player and a previous opponent are using similar sleeves, if cards get stuck in the player's deck box, or if cards are dropped on the floor. If the card is found, or the player can provide an identical card to replace the missing one, the player should be allowed to continue the event without further modifying the deck or the decklist. If the card cannot be found and the player cannot provide an identical card, the missing card should be replaced with a basic Energy card of the player's choice, and the decklist should be modified to reflect the new contents of the deck. Either way, the penalty should still be issued.

Examples of Deck Problems: Legal Decklist, Illegal Deck include:

- The decklist contains sixty cards, including four copies of Ghetsis, but the deck contains fifty-nine cards and only three copies of Ghetsis. In this case, the player may add one Ghetsis to his or her deck. If that player cannot provide one, he or she must add a basic Energy card. The decklist is then modified to reflect the change.
- In a Standard event, the decklist contains two copies of Magmortar (XY—Furious Fists, 11/111), but the deck contains two copies of Magmortar (Black & White—Dragons Exalted, 21/124). In this case, the illegal cards must be removed from the deck, and the deck must be modified to match the decklist. If that player cannot provide the legal cards, he or she must add a basic Energy card. The decklist is then modified to reflect the change.

- The player's deck contains foreign cards as defined by the Pokémon Tournament Rules. In this case, any foreign cards should be replaced with a local language version if possible. If this is not possible, the cards should be replaced with basic Energy cards. The decklist is then modified to reflect the change.

Recommended Starting Penalty:

Tier 1: Game Loss

Tier 2: Game Loss

7.3.3. Illegal Decklist, Illegal Deck

Occasionally, a player will simply show up with an illegal decklist and deck that do not meet the format restrictions or the deck construction rules. When this is the case, both the deck and the decklist must be modified to make the deck legal for the event. Any illegal cards should be replaced with basic Energy cards of the player's choice, and the changes should be reflected on the decklist.

As with the previous category, the Head Judge should carefully consider what advantage, if any, was gained by the illegal deck. If the Head Judge feels that there was a significant advantage or the error cannot be easily fixed during the match, escalating the may be necessary.

Examples of Deck Problems: Illegal Decklist, Illegal Deck include:

- Both the decklist and the deck contain five copies of Herbal Energy, violating the four-card limit rule.
- Both the decklist and the deck contain more or less than sixty cards.
- In a Standard event, both the decklist and the deck contain four Dark Ampharos (EX Team Rocket Returns, 2/109).

Recommended Starting Penalty:

Tier 1: Game Loss

Tier 2: Game Loss

7.3.4. Legal Decklist, Legal Deck

Occasionally a player's decklist and deck meet the format restrictions and the deck construction rules but do not match. As the contents of the decklist always take priority over the contents of the deck itself, the player must modify his or her deck so that it matches the decklist. If the player is unable to provide the cards listed on the decklist, missing cards should be replaced with basic Energy cards of the player's choice, and the decklist should be updated to reflect these changes.

As with previous categories, the Head Judge should carefully consider what advantage, if any, was gained by this error. If the Head Judge feels that there was a significant advantage escalating the penalty may be necessary.

Examples of Deck Problems: Legal Decklist, Legal Deck include:

- A player's deck contains 4 Fighting Energy cards, but the decklist contains 4 Strong Energy cards.
- A player's deck contains 4 Snorlax (Black & White—Plasma Storm, 101/135), but the decklist contains 2 Snorlax (Black & White—Plasma Storm, 101/135) and 2 Snorlax (XY—Flashfire, 80/106)
- A player's deck contains 3 Pal Pad cards and 2 Protection Cube cards, but the decklist contains 2 Pal Pad cards and 3 Protection Cube cards.
- In an Unlimited event, the decklist contains four copies of Torchic (EX Ruby & Sapphire, 73/109), but the deck contains four copies of Torchic (EX Ruby & Sapphire, 74/109).

Recommended Starting Penalty:

Tier 1: Prize Card

Tier 2: Prize Card

7.4. Game Tempo

The pace of a Pokémon TGC game should be lively without being excessively fast, and each player should receive approximately half of the allotted time for the game. However, the way players react to pressure can have an impact on the tempo at which they take their turns. Judges should watch for changes in tempo and make corrections if needed.

In general, the following time limits for various game actions should be appropriate. The times given below are general guidelines; players attempting to compartmentalize their turn in order to use every second of the time allowed for the items below are almost certainly stalling and should be subject to the Unsporting Conduct: Severe penalties.

- Performing the actions of a card or attack: 15 seconds
- Shuffling and setup, game start: 2 minutes
- Shuffling and deck search, mid-game: 15 seconds
- Starting the turn after opponent's "end of turn" announcement: 5 seconds
- Considering the game position before playing a card: 10 seconds

Notes during a game should be taken using the same time limits listed above. For example, a player making a note about a mid-game deck search must do so in the same 15 seconds allowed for the action.

7.4.1. Slow Play

Players should take care to play in a manner that keeps the game pace lively, regardless of the complexity of the situation. A player who takes too long to make decisions about game play runs the risk of putting his or her opponent at a disadvantage due to the round's time limit. In addition to the recommended penalty, the judge may issue a time extension to offset this disadvantage.

Slow play penalties should escalate at a faster rate than other penalties, but should not exceed a Prize Card penalty.

Examples of Game Tempo: Slow Play include:

- You are excessively slow when deciding which Pokémon to attach an Energy card to.
- You take an unreasonable amount of time deciding which Basic Pokémon to take from your deck after playing a Poké Ball card.

- Counting or searching your (or your opponent's) deck or discard pile more than once in a short time period.
- Repeatedly searching your deck, hand, or discard pile while performing a card effect.
- Attempting to engage in extraneous conversation that interferes with timely play.

Recommended Starting Penalty:

Tier 1: Caution

Tier 2: Warning

7.4.2. Rushing

Rushing involves a player trying to get his or her opponent to play faster. This can cause the opponent to lose his or her concentration, making the player more likely to make a mistake. Rushing is often a symptom of an opponent's Slow Play, but it can also occur when a player is excited to get to his or her next turn.

Examples of Game Tempo: Rushing include:

- Placing/tapping your hand near your deck to draw a card during an opponent's turn, indicating that you are ready to start your turn.
- Making exasperated noises or comments regarding your opponent's actions.
- Rushing through your opponent's attack step by putting damage on your Pokémon before your opponent announces which attack is being used, or the total damage being done to the Defending Pokémon.

Recommended Starting Penalty:

Tier 1: Caution

Tier 2: Warning

7.5. Procedural Error

A player who causes an error in the operation of an event, such as misreporting a match, playing the wrong opponent, failing to notify a judge or TO that he or she is dropping from the event, or other such errors, needs to be reminded of the procedural rules of a Pokémon Organized Play event. As with Game-Play Errors or other accidental infractions, this reminder is customarily given with a Caution penalty. Repeated infractions may result in higher penalties.

7.5.1. Minor

This category covers smaller errors that do not have a serious impact on the operation of the event. If the situation can be corrected before any delay or disruption occurs, the correction should always be made and no higher penalty than a Caution should be dispensed for a first infraction. If the situation goes unreported until delay or disruption is caused, a Warning is a suitable first penalty.

Examples of Procedural Error: Minor include:

- Failing to sign the match slip.
- Entering marked or announced staff-only areas.
- Interrupting staff during announcements to players or rulings in progress.

Recommended Starting Penalty:

Tier 1: Caution

Tier 2: Caution

7.5.2. Major

Occasionally errors are made that have a much larger impact on the tournament's operation. Some can cause a major delay in the timeliness of the event; others can cause a significant inconvenience for the players around you. In some extreme cases the penalty for this infraction can be escalated to a Game Loss for a first offense.

Examples of Procedural Error: Major include:

- Incorrectly filling out a match slip
- Showing up to a match late (less than 5 minutes).
- Failure to provide status condition markers if cards in your deck use those conditions.
- Failure to provide damage counters to track damage on your Pokémon.

Recommended Starting Penalty:

Tier 1: Warning

Tier 2: Warning

7.5.3. Severe

This category is typically reserved from an infraction that has a significant impact on the event, or is the result of a breakdown in event protocol.

Examples of Procedural Error: Severe include:

- Incorrectly reporting the result of a match.
- Showing up late to a match (5 minutes or more).
- Failure to report that you are dropping from an event before leaving the venue. (This penalty will be issued regardless of whether the player is there to receive it or not.)
- Playing the incorrect opponent. (In this case, the player sitting at the wrong table receives the penalty.)

Recommended Starting Penalty:

Tier 1: Game Loss

Tier 2: Game Loss

7.6. Unsporting Conduct

This group of penalties covers the inappropriate actions taken by players or spectators at an event. This category always assumes that the offending actions are intentional. A player does not have to be actively involved in a match to receive an Unsporting Conduct penalty. While players and spectators should enjoy their tournament experience, they also need to remember that their actions can have a negative impact on fellow participants.

7.6.1. Minor

Players are expected to behave in a respectful manner to all attendees and staff of a Pokémon event. Players who don't behave properly need to be reminded to with the issuance of a penalty. Infractions in this category have no impact on the event operation itself.

Examples of Unsporting Conduct: Minor include:

- Swearing in the tournament area.
- Leaving a small amount of garbage in the tournament area.
- Roughhousing.
- Repeatedly touching or moving an opponent's cards without permission.
- Disturbing a match in progress.

Recommended Starting Penalty:

Tier 1: Warning

Tier 2: Warning

7.6.2. Major

Players are expected to behave in a respectful manner to all attendees and staff of a Pokémon event. Players who don't behave properly need to be reminded to with the issuance of a penalty. Infractions in this category have a direct impact on event operation or cause a small degree of emotional distress to those around them.

Examples of Unsporting Conduct: Major include:

- Leaving a large amount of garbage in the tournament area.
- Failure to comply with the instructions of the event staff.
- Engaging in gamesmanship/rules lawyering.
- Attempting to manipulate a match through intimidation or distraction.
- Refusal to sign a match slip.
- Making legal plays which have no effect on the game in progress to manipulate the time remaining in a match.
- Playing slowly to manipulate the time remaining in a match.

Recommended Starting Penalty:

Tier 1: Game Loss

Tier 2: Game Loss

7.6.3. Severe

Players are expected to behave in a respectful manner to all attendees and staff of a Pokémon event. Players who don't behave properly need to be reminded to with the issuance of a penalty. Infractions in this category have a serious impact on event operation or integrity, cause great emotional distress to those around them, or involve a physical altercation.

Examples of Unsporting Conduct: Severe include:

- Defacement of tournament area.
- Determining the outcome of a match by random means, through the use of bribery or coercion, or via other choosing methods/games.
- Assault.
- Use of profanity or physical threats to event staff.
- Theft.

- Use of slurs or insults.

Recommended Starting Penalty:

Tier 1: Disqualification

Tier 2: Disqualification

7.6.4. Cheating

Players who intentionally commit infractions are looking to gain an unfair advantage over other players at the event. The Head Judge should carefully consider whether an infraction was intentional or not before applying this penalty. If the Head Judge feels that an infraction was unintentional, this penalty should not be applied.

Examples of Unsporting Conduct: Cheating include:

- Drawing extra cards.
- Taking cards from the discard pile and adding them to your hand or deck.
- Offering any form of compensation to an opponent for a concession.
- Altering match results after the result has been agreed upon and the match slip has been signed by both players.
- Playing with marked cards.
- Lying to event staff.
- Arbitrarily adjusting the Special Conditions or damage counters put on any Pokémon in play.
- Use of dubious game actions intended to deceive your opponent into making misplays.
- Attempting to manipulate a random result.
- Stacking your deck.

Recommended Starting Penalty:

Tier 1: Disqualification

Tier 2: Disqualification

8. Lasting Consequences

Players who commit repeated infractions over a series of events, or commit enough infractions at a single event to result in disqualification, may require a lasting penalty to be assigned to them.

Pokémon Organized Play is the only body authorized to penalize players with penalties that extend over multiple events. Pokémon Organized Play requires the reporting of all penalty assignments of Warning level or higher in order to ensure that these penalties are made fairly and only when warranted.

9. Suspension

Pokémon Organized Play may issue suspensions to players who disrupt other players or the events they attend. In these cases, the players will be notified and their names and Player IDs will be made available to Tournament Organizers.

A suspended player should not be allowed to participate in any Pokémon Organized Play events as a player, judge, Tournament Organizer, or volunteer. If a suspended player disrupts an event by trying to participate and then refusing to leave, the incident should be reported to POP and may result in an extension of the existing suspension.
